

Class Action

The firm's litigation practice specializes in representing organizations and corporations that have been subject to class action lawsuits. Our team comprises skilled attorneys with a particular expertise in managing the unique proceedings related to class action lawsuits, and has done so in a variety of legal forums. Our team is also keen to the many legal developments that have transpired in the class action sector both in Israel and abroad.

Our class action practice has handled matters exceeding hundreds of millions of NIS in exposure, many of which have raised new legal issues in a wide range of practice areas, including consumer protection, communication, products liability, food and safety standards, spam, accessibility law, environmental law and more.

Our extensive experience, professionalism and uncompromising determination to resolve conflicts to the benefit of each client's particular needs has resulted in the significant mitigation of our clients' legal exposure. Our firm continually employs creative and various tools in order achieve a solution that best fits each individual client's needs.
