

Class actions

The commercial implications and public scrutiny that often accompany class actions are particularly worrying for defendants. The client needs the reassurance that comes from working with the most prepared, strategic and experienced lawyers, who, inside or outside their comfort zone, know how to tackle all the issues to bring the matter to a close.

ZAG enjoys a successful record in defending class action claims brought against private and public companies, playing an instrumental role for clients in class actions involving consumer protection, banking, communications, food regulation and much more.

ZAG litigation team conduct multi-million class action procedures on a regular basis. The legal services include also assistance in choosing the relevant experts as the case might be (for example, financial experts, medical experts, accessibility experts, etc.).
