

Litigation in Courts and Arbitration Institutions

Legal proceedings conducted before internal tribunals of various sporting associations, such as FIFA, and International Basketball Federation, are characterized by unique sets of rules, regulations and procedures. Such proceedings are partially based on specific legislation and case law, which must be considered in order to successfully represent the client.

Backed by more than three decades of experience, the lawyers in our Sports department are extremely knowledgeable about the practicalities and realities of the unique rules that apply to these tribunals.

This unrivalled abundance of real-world experience continues to attract a roster of major athletes, sports clubs and associations, such as Hapoel Sports Association, the largest sports organization in Israel which acts as an umbrella organization for approximately half of the sporting associations in the country.
